

A photograph of a forest stream. The stream flows through a dense forest, surrounded by fallen leaves and moss-covered rocks. The water is clear and shallow. The surrounding vegetation includes various trees and plants, some with green leaves and others with brown, fallen leaves. A small white sign with Japanese text is visible on the right bank of the stream.

ヒラミナ

A photograph of a forest during a dormant season, likely late autumn or winter. The trees are mostly bare, with thin, vertical trunks and a complex network of branches. The ground is covered with a dense layer of green, succulent-like plants, possibly a type of groundcover or moss. The lighting is soft and diffused, suggesting an overcast day. The overall atmosphere is quiet and somewhat desolate.
